

OPEN STATEMENT: WHY STRONG, ACCOUNTABLE INSTITUTIONS MATTER BEYOND 2015¹

We, the under-signed, believe transparent, accountable and inclusive institutions are vital if we are to end poverty and protect the planet.

We are convinced that a specific goal addressing this urgent call is an essential component of the Post-2015 Development Framework. The reasons are overwhelming.

Millions of citizens around the world, particularly youth, are demanding more open and accountable governance. In a public opinion poll, over four million people identified “honest and responsive government” as one of their top four development priorities. The Post-2015 Development Framework must respond to this overwhelming call by enabling people, especially those experiencing poverty and marginalisation, to participate in governance at all levels.

In order to eradicate poverty and ensure sustainable development, governments, companies and civil society must collaborate to strengthen transparency, participation and accountability. We should promote open societies, a free media and freedom of expression, association and peaceful assembly, legal empowerment and the rule of law. We should also join forces to implement anti-corruption measures that enable effective and inclusive economic, social and political institutions at all levels of society.

Corruption thrives in every corner of the world and in countries of every income level. Developed countries have a particular responsibility to ensure there is no safe-haven for corruption. Given the strong correlation between the rate of bribery and several key development indicators, governance and anti-corruption must be top priorities when new development goals and targets are set in September 2015.

This has already been recognised. In 2013, the United Nations High-Level Panel on the Post-2015 Development Agenda recommended a dedicated goal on good governance. In 2014, the Open Working Group on Sustainable Development Goals called for a goal on effective, accountable and inclusive institutions. We encourage the Secretary-General and members of the UN General Assembly to heed these calls.

In 2030, we want a world where transparent, accountable, effective and inclusive institutions help eradicate poverty and protect our planet for future generations. Now more than ever we must act to enshrine good governance within the sustainable development goals. Please join us.

¹ The statement is the result of the event hosted on 24 September 2014 titled “Ending Poverty: Why Strong, Accountable Institutions Matter” by Transparency International and the governments of Ghana and the UK. See: http://www.transparency.org/news/feature/joining_forces_to_end_poverty_and_corruption.

SIGNATORIES

Access Info Europe

Costa Rica Integra

Africa Freedom of Information Centre (AFIC)

Concerned Citizens of Abra for Good Government

Alorza.net

CPI Foundation

Article 19

Development Initiatives

Australian Council of Social Service

Ericsson Group

BRAC

ESE

CAFOD

FOL – Kosovo

CEMDI

FUNDAR

Center for Sustainable Development and Education in Africa (CSDEA)

Gemawan

CIECODE

Global Witness

Civicus

Global Financial Integrity

Coalition Against Corruption

Global Forum for Media Development

CODE - Nigeria

GOPAC (Global Organization of Parliamentarians against Corruption)

Human Rights First Rwanda Association

Partnership for Governance Reform

IFIA (International Federation of Inspection Agencies)

Partnership for Transparency Fund

Indigo Trust

Pattiro

Institute for Development of Freedom of Information

Plan UK

InterAction

Ploughshare Group

Integrity Initiative

ProgramaEstudiantil Juventud

International Budget Partnership

Public Audit Research

Institute for State Effectiveness

Publish What You Fund

K-Monitor

Publish What You Pay Australia

Makati Business Club

REMDI

Namati

Restless Development

Norsk Hydro

Safaricom

Open Knowledge Foundation

Searchlighter

Oxfam International

SERAP - Nigeria

Skanska

Transparencia Mexicana

Stora Enso

Transparency International Turkey

Sunlight Foundation

Transparency International Ukraine

Terra-1530

UNCAC Coalition

Transparency International

United Nations Association of the USA (UNA-USA)

Transparency International Bangladesh

Uniting Church in Australia, Synod of Victoria and Tasmania'

Transparencia Colombia

WhistleblowerNetzwerk E.V.

Transparency International Indonesia

World Wide Web Foundation

